THE GENERAL SITUATION.

MISSISSIPPI.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—[Special.]—The Republican Independents have asked Gen. Chalmers, of Mississippi, whether they should accept the invitation of the Republican National Committee to cooperate with the Republican party. In reply Gen. Chalmers has written the following letter:

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.—Mr. John T. Holt, Chairman Executive Committee of the Independent: You ask my opinion as to the best course for the Independents and Conservatives to pursue in the coming campaign in Mississippi, and I answer freely and unreservedly. You and I are Conservatives in principle, and are free from prejudice in the fact that the highest judicial tribunal in the nation, the Supreme Court of the United States, has fully sustained our claim that the enemy of the Government, whether it be placed on gold, silver, cotton, wheat, or paper, settled the issues of the war, and that no legislation undoes that settlement. But to Mississippi it is able to add about any political principle unless we first secure a fair method of choosing which will enable the people to express their political sentiments at the polls. A vote of the constituents, in spite of the counting, overawed with a flag in the Confederate, have brought the settlement of the election here carried a majority to Democratic control in the Legislature, which, in a minority, with a few honorable exceptions like Pascoe, they supplied election officers over their other whatever they please to them who dare rebel to duty to the interest of United States Supervisors to Federal courts, that Confederate spies, who refused to register in the county where they lived, and who were known to be disloyal to the Government, were registered and voted, and that the Democratic party, by these and other methods, has carried the Congressional elections in this State.

But Dailey proposes to stay quiet. The people have to bear the burden of taxation imposed by the Democratic majority in the Legislature, and through failing to exercise their right of suffrage will be compelled to bear the burden of a misgoverned prosperity of Dailey would not be a benefit to the people of Mississippi, and would be a curse to the party. Dailey is a Democrat, and would be a Democrat in office. He would not appoint a Republican to office, and would not allow a Republican to vote. A BLOODLESS SHOOTING AFFRAY.

Special Correspondence of The Chicago Tribune.

EAGLE CITY, I. T., March 31.—[Special.] The first shot from a Staff Correspondent.]—The first shooting match for water occurred this morning, and for a time a general row was expected. There were two men working on a claim on Eagle creek, just north of the business portion, who claimed all but two others who worked on the original corners. They refused to leave, and the money went off for shooting irons and ammunition. Inside of ten minutes the holders of the 1st accepted their resignations to shootings as honorable, and those which they succeeded their bonafide holding the claim at all hazards.

A STRANGLING OF OPPOSITION.

Then the two parties came together there were bullets, which account for both. Over fifty shots were fired in a short time and at a distance of not more than fifty feet, but owing to the inexpert manner of both parties no one was seriously injured, with the exception of a bystander, who was shot in the leg by a stray bullet.

Tomorrow is the last day for making reports of claims, and a general [illegible] is anticipated.

INDIANA.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 3.—[Special Dispatch.] The weather to-day was clear and cool. The roads are in excellent condition. The [illegible] Democratic State Committee met this morning and issued a call for the State Convention, to be held in this city on June 18, for the purpose of nominating candidates for Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor of State, Treasurer of State, Attorney-General, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Reporter of the Supreme Court, Clerk of the Supreme Court, and Judge of the Appellate Court. The basis of representation in the convention will be one delegate for each 1,000 votes cast for Governor in 1882, and one additional delegate for a fraction of 500 votes and upward. The call also provides that the delegates shall be elected by the Democratic voters of the several counties, at such time and place as the County Committees may appoint, but not later than May 31. The Committee also appointed Hon. Thomas Taggart, of Marion County, Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, and Hon. Daniel Somers, of Lake County, Secretary of the Committee.

A DISGRACEFUL AFFAIR.

The Democratic Convention of Marion County, which met this afternoon to elect delegates to the State Convention, was a disgraceful affair. The Democratic Committee of Marion County, which has been in control of the party organization for many years, refused to recognize the Democratic Club of the Fifth Ward, which is composed of the young Democrats of the city, and refused to allow the delegates from that club to participate in the Convention. The Democratic Club of the Fifth Ward, which is composed of the young Democrats of the city, and refused to allow the delegates from that club to participate in the Convention. AN IMPORTANT DECREE.

The New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railway Company Restrained from Interfering with the Postal Telegraph Company.

CINCINNATI, O., April 3.—Judge Baxter, of the United States Circuit Court, today ordered the following decree to be entered in the suit of the National Telegraph Company vs. The New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railway Company, now pending in the United States Circuit Court, Judge Baxter presiding: The bill of complaint in this cause having been filed by the complainant, the National Telegraph Company, and the defendant, the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railway Company, now appearing by its solicitors, and the complainant having moved for a preliminary injunction, and the defendant having appeared by its solicitors and consented that the motion for a preliminary injunction might be heard upon the bill and answer, and the court having heard the arguments of counsel, and having duly considered the same, it is ordered, adjudged, and decreed by the court that the plaintiff, its solicitors, and attorneys, the Hon. John Baxter, Circuit Judge, presiding, and the defendant, the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railway Company, its officers, servants, and agents be, and they are hereby enjoined and restrained from, in any manner directly or indirectly interfering with or in any manner preventing, hindering, or delaying the plaintiff in the use and enjoyment of the rights and privileges granted to it by the contract set out in the bill of complaint, and from in any manner interfering with the said contract, or the rights of the plaintiff thereunder, in the premises of the defendant, or in the premises of any railroad company with which the defendant connects its lines, and from in any manner interfering with the plaintiff in the use of its telegraph lines on the lines of railroad of the defendant, or on the lines of railroad

William Rowland, known as the King of the tramp printers, died recently at the age of 87 years. Rowland's whole career was a romance. He was born in and in his youth was a worker of marvels in the trade of printing. At the time of the famine he owned a newspaper in Dublin, and during the famine period he gave away over 100,000 copies of his paper, which was then a penny publication. Rowland was also a poet, and published several books before the discovery of tramp printing.

I heard the other night a story about Wendell Phillips, which I do not think has ever been in circulation. When he was down to a point of pinch with "dog" nights, who was on a committee to wait on one of the Senators and President of the old Union received. Webster had been talking with him for the committee, and Phillips was to see him at 8:00 about the matter of which both of them were ignorant. When the time arrived Webster was not ready. Phillips was shown into the parlor, and a darkey came and said that Webster would be down presently. Phillips had not been there long before he was astonished to hear from the adjoining room the voice of Webster, who was evidently addressing a large audience. Phillips was about to open the door, when he heard Webster say: "Gentlemen, I am glad to see you here this evening, and I hope you will enjoy yourselves. Make yourselves perfectly at home. Help yourself to anything you see on the table, and if you want anything else, ring the bell and the waiter will bring it." Phillips was astonished at this, and, opening the door, found himself in the presence of a large party of ladies and gentlemen, who were enjoying themselves at a supper. Webster, who was the host, was not in the room. Phillips was about to withdraw, when Webster, who had heard the door open, came out and said: "Mr. Phillips, I am glad to see you. I am sorry to have kept you waiting, but I was detained by these people. Come and have some supper." Phillips was astonished, but, of course, he accepted the invitation, and had a very pleasant evening. Webster was a great lover of good living, and was very fastidious in choosing his wines and cigars. "Drinking and smoking are the two things I have the pleasure of patronizing," he often said. "I am very particular about my wines, and I always buy them myself, and I am very particular about my cigars, too. I always buy them myself, and I am very particular about my cigars, too. I always buy them myself, and I am very particular about my cigars, too.

STOCK CONVENTIONS.

Second Day of the Cattlemen's Meeting at Fort Worth—Ohio Drovers at Covington from Great Antiquity.

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 3.—[Special.]—The Cattlemen's Convention was very largely attended today, and the proceedings were of a very interesting nature, many questions being thoroughly debated. The first work of the morning session was the reception of the report of the Executive Committee. This was read by Arthur Stanley, Vice-President of the Association, and was an able document. It was particularly severe in denouncing the methods by which cattle had been stolen in Texas and it was alleged that stolen stock from other States, especially in the case of a Texas man who was arrested, had entered at the Chicago Stock-Yards through the medium of the bill to a fictitious person.

The most important part of the report was that in relation to the leasing of Texas cattle lands. It showed that the State for the last time, a Democratic Administration of corporations exclusively, had leased, with authority, about seven million acres of land, at 2 cents per acre per annum, for a term of years, and that the Democratic Administration, which would come in March, 1 cent

FIFTH WARD PRATTLE.

The authority vested in the Council Committee on Streets and Alleys to grant the use of the streets of the Fifth Ward, Tuesday afternoon, and such complete authority was conferred by the vote of the whole Council last night, and the comment was that the Aldermen should take lessons of Mr. Hesing in "how work," as fast both as the power of the Council enabled and his would. All these who have to do a share of attention to the ward have associated with Hesing in the Gambling work.

Mr. C. J. Hilsh has employed an attorney, and he swears to a Tribune reporter that he would not sell every person engaged in the republican business that lives precinct. It was said during the last Hesing had consented payment and was willing to receive Hilsh's withdrawal of his prosecution was begun.

HOUSE WAS CROWDED.

The feeling on the part of Hilsh's friends was that the opportunity to punish the persons who engaged in the violence and theft and destruction of Hesing's votes a week should not be let slowly pass. Hilsh, Attorney Hilsh and his friends had determined to get all the evidence they could possibly get together in a week's time, and then push the prosecution of the offenders who had acted in such a way. Hilsh, in fact, he was prepared for having charges of the Hesing attorney, Mr. Hesing, with Republicans and Democrats. The House of the Democratic Precinct was especially prepared to attempting a rigorous prosecution, as they had secured enough from Hesing to buy a new carpet for the house, and the Democrats were willing to have it "how work" as fast as possible. Hilsh, on the other hand, was determined to have all the offenders punished, and the feeling ran high. In fact, he was prepared for

The Two Parties Are Given a Chance to Declare Their Intentions.

They Insist That They Have a Contract—The County Attorney Denies It.

Text of the Latter's Opinion—Comptroller Mills Argues Against Him—A Lively Session.

The committee of County Commissioners appointed to deal with the affairs of Kiley & Co. met last night for [illegible] the county fund under existing contracts afterwards. The committee did not consult itself any further than to direct the attorney of Kiley & Co. to furnish documents. One of these was an agreement purporting to show that the resolution of the board was not in effect. The other was substantially a duplicate of the former proposition, one of the conditions containing the agreement upon which bids were made by the legal contractors of Kiley & Co., but the Commissioners were also two and apparently contained none to [illegible] suggested that there should be [illegible] suggested that there should be [illegible] to the consideration of their proposals.

[illegible] the committee came to order with Mr. Leech at the chair and the following members present: Messrs. The following gentlemen were present on behalf of the [illegible] Association: Henry Lee Brown, Vice-President; J. C. Ambler, Secretary; George [illegible] Attorney, and Mark Kimball. Kiley & Co. sat apart, though his attorney, Alfred [illegible] were quite early. All Collection were given the middle of a discussion and an [illegible] for Mr. Brown. He attempted to make [illegible] and to bring Kiley & Co. to the [illegible] and left the room. County Attorney Bliss, as a member of the committee, came early and gave close attention to all that was said and done.

[illegible] was having called for Mr. Kiley, he appeared and declared that the latter was ill. Mr. Brown then went on to explain what the [illegible] meant to do, stating that at the last meeting which he had been [illegible] in the matter of supervisors, he had been [illegible] to speak to the legal power of the committee, but that he was ready to present his views on the ground of expediency or on the ground of law and hoped the committee would listen to both points.

He said that the committee did not desire to take up unnecessarily, as the people were [illegible] to them.

Mr. Gross said he had written the agreement to bid and was prepared to [illegible] the committee. The point which [illegible] to raise was that the resolution of [illegible] was not in effect.
